PROFILE OF RESISTANCE

JO ANN ROBINSON

teacher, activist, organizer

"People the world over should know that any group, if given equal opportunity in education employment, civil rights, and the like, can be desirable citizens anywhere, with as much to offer as any other group."

Page | 1

Background Information Born April 17, 1912; Died August 29, 1992

In 1934, Robinson graduated from Fort Valley State College and became a public school teacher. After a few years of teaching, she received a master's in English from Atlanta University. Afterwards, she worked at Alabama State College.

Robinson's Resistance

When Robinson began working at Alabama State College, she joined the Women's Political Council (WPC). In 1949, she was verbally attacked by a bus driver because she sat in the Whites-only section of a bus. This is was years before Claudette Colvin and Rosa Parks sat in White sections to spark change. She tried to get WPC to protest against this injustice, but no action was taken.

She soon became the president of the WPC and focused their efforts of the abusive treatment of white bus drivers against black bus riders. When Rosa Parks was arrested in 1955 for refusing to give up her seat, Robinson lead organizing efforts for the Montgomery Bus Boycotts. She and others provided transportation to those who participated in their year-long boycott1. In 1960, she began teaching again until her retirement.

Achievements

Robinson was never formally recognized for all of the work she put into the Montgomery boycotts. However, her efforts did not go unnoticed. Her work was crucial for the success of the desegregation of buses. She worked tirelessly to ensure that the boycott was effective. She continued to stay active in local politics throughout her life₂. Ultimately, Robinson was a crucial figure in the Civil Rights Movement.

 $_{2}$ Jo Ann Robinson. (n.d.). Retrieved from http://www.encyclopediaofalabama.org/article/h-3124.

¹ Mack, D. (2019, August 8). Jo Ann Robinson (1912-1992) Black Past. Retrieved from https://www.blackpast.org/african-american-history/robinson-jo-ann-1912-1992/.

Essential Questions

Page | 2

1. Robinson used her experiences and power to create change in an unjust system. How can you use your experiences and influence to create change in the community you are a part of?

2. Robinson is not often recognized for her efforts. Why do you think that is and how do you think she felt about it?

- 3. "People the world over should know that any group, if given equal opportunity in education, employment, civil rights, and the like, can be desirable citizens anywhere, with as much to offer as any other group."
 - a. What could you do to spread this message to people in your local community who may not agree with it?

